

Dominican Pull-Out For 1,700

New Withdrawal Ordered By LBJ; Warns Terrorists

WACO, Texas (AP) — President Johnson announced today he is issuing orders to withdraw 1,700 American military men from the Dominican Republic.

But he warned at the same time that in the hemisphere "we can expect more efforts at triumph by terror and conquest through chaos." And he called for "new international machinery geared to meet fast-moving events."

In an address prepared for commencement exercises at Baylor University — once headed by his great grandfather George Washington Baines — Johnson said, "When forces of freedom move slowly — whether on political, economic or military fronts — the forces of slavery and subversion move rapidly and decisively."

The president said that one of the lessons learned during the past four weeks in the Dominican Republic is that "it is clear that we need new international machinery geared to meet fast-moving events."

"When hours can decide the fate of generations, the moment of decision must become the moment of action," he added.

The 1,700 troops the President said are being withdrawn are in addition to 1,600 he said have been withdrawn over the past two days.

And Johnson said he has instructed Lt. Gen. Bruce Palmer, commander of U.S. forces in the Dominican Republic, "to discuss possible further withdrawals" with Gen. Hugo Panasco Alvim of Brazil, commander of the Organization of American States forces in the revolt-torn Caribbean country.

Johnson said the necessity for quick action is one of "the new realities" made apparent by the Dominican situation.

The President has been criticized in some quarters for not advising other hemisphere nations before announcing his decision April 28 to send military forces to the Dominican Republic.

Georgetown Home Burns To Ground

Georgetown had another fire which destroyed one of the new homes of the town about 1:57 a.m. Friday morning. The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence L. Comfort was lost to fire of undetermined origin.

Mr. and Mrs. Comfort and their son, C. L. Comfort, Jr., who is employed at Garst's Drive In, were not at home at the time.

The fire was believed to have originated in the basement, burned its way up through the south portion of the house, eating its way on up through the walls and out the roof. In a matter of minutes it spread throughout the entire residence and in an hour the building had collapsed into the basement.

The County Fire Department received the call at 2:03 a.m., but before their arrival the fire had spread so thoroughly through the four-room and bath dwelling, the firemen were unable to save more than the car port attached to the south part of the residence.

Nothing in the house was saved with all the family's furnishings and clothing being lost in the flames.

Comfort told Fire Chief Ralph Milburn that he and his wife left the home about 11:45 p.m. Mrs. Comfort not feeling well and they drove into town. He reported that just before they left he set the furnace up to 70 degrees so the home would be warm when they returned.

They arrived just before the fire truck reached the scene.

Marion Todd, a carrier for the Kansas City Star who resides across the street to the north, was just leaving his home to deliver the morning papers when he noticed the fire in the basement and in the upper part of the residence. Mrs. Todd first called the Sedalia Fire Department and then the County Fire Department.

Loss to the residence and contents was estimated at about $15,000, which Comfort said was partially covered by insurance.

The nine-year-old residence was purchased from George Shull, the builder, last fall.

The Comforts moved to the home several months ago.

Balloon-Shaped Cloud Observed During Storm

The wind that demolished the rear wall of Homakers Furniture Store on South Limit has escaped definite identification, but at least a partial picture of it is available now.

The description comes from Mrs. Theodore Jones, 1629 East Vista Rest Home, Georgetown road. Mrs. Jones said she was outside the rest home building when Sedalia was being buffeted by high winds, even though north of town the weather was relatively calm.

Flashes of lightning enabled Mrs. Jones to see a "large balloon-shaped cloud with a long tail on it" just on the east edge of Sedalia at about 3:45 a.m. Wednesday.

Mrs. Jones said the movement of the cloud reminded her of the "twisting of a kite string." From her vantage point, Mrs. Jones said, she noted the cloud was moving slowly eastward, even though it then made a backward movement toward the west.

Damage caused by high winds in the city in the pre-dawn hours Wednesday ranged into the thousands of dollars, according to some sources.

BURNS DOWN — An early morning fire at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence L. Comfort, Georgetown, completely destroyed the home Friday morning. The Comforts were not at home. Only the carport (right) was saved. The main structure collapsed into the basement a short time after this picture was taken.

200 More Trapped In India

Mine Blast Kills 200

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — A tremendous pre-dawn explosion ripped through a coal mine near the eastern Indian town of Dhanbad today, killing 200 miners and killing or trapping perhaps 200 more.

The Ministry of Mines in New Delhi gave the figure of 200 known killed and said the death toll might reach 400.

Reports from the scene said the force of the explosion was so great that a blast shot up the mine shaft and killed men working on the surface.

One Indian newsmen at Dhanbad said an engine room and nearby office on the surface had been devastated by the blast.

The ministry said the explosion occurred at the worst possible moment—at shift changing time, when the number of miners underground was double a normal shift.

Ministry officials said indications were that coal dust was responsible for the explosion.

Coal dust can gather in explosive quantities in mines, even hanging suspended in the air. Under the right conditions, a spark can set off an explosion.

The mine is part of the Bokaro Ramgarh group. It produces about 20,000 tons of coal annually. The coal is used as fuel for the Bokaro steel mill which the Russians built for India after the United States withdrew its offer of aid.

The mine is in Bihar State, one of India's most underdeveloped. Dhanbad is 225 miles northwest of Calcutta. Its communications with the outside world are poor.

Study Bonus Proposal For Re-enlistees

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon is proposing a special bonus to lure men with critical skills into re-enlisting in the armed services.

The bonus system, recommended to Congress in a little-noticed section of a pay-increase bill, could give some corporals and specialists as much as $6,300, depending on the importance of their skills.

Two years ago, Congress ignored a similar Defense Department proposal.

However, top officials hope the Senate and House will be more receptive this time because of the increasing difficulty in holding trained men.

The plight of the Navy was pointed up several weeks ago when Secretary Paul H. Nitze appealed to officers and men whose active-duty tours were running out to extend their service three or six months. Navy officials said it is too early to measure the response to Nitze's plea.

Defense Department studies have listed inadequate pay as a major factor in the inability to keep men trained in electronics and other important skills.

The Defense Department already has a re-enlistment bonus system in effect. The new special system aimed at the highly skilled would be superimposed on it.

Under the standard system, a man completing his first enlistment and signing up for another hitch is entitled to one month's pay multiplied by the number of years of re-enlistment.

Graduating Tonight

Graduation exercises for 32 Sacred Heart High School students will be held at 8 o'clock tonight at the high school.

The United States withdrew its offer of aid.

The mine is in Bihar State, one of India's most underdeveloped. Dhanbad is 225 miles northwest of Calcutta. Its communications with the outside world are poor.

Lewis Named President Of MDA Chapter

E. Glenn Lewis, 118 East Tenth, was elected president of the Mid Missouri Chapter, Muscular Dystrophy Association of America at a meeting held May 25.

Other officers elected were:

E. GLENN LEWIS

Mrs. Gregory Connor, first vice-president; David Eisenstein, Maurice Kelley and J. D. Walker, vice presidents; Mrs. William Craig, Jr., secretary; Mrs. Lily Thomas, treasurer; Robert Beykirch, Willard Craig, Jr., Mrs. David Eisenstein, Mrs. Glenn Lewis, Ray Johnson, Mrs. D. H. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Gregory, Harry Kanter and Delmar Gann, members of the board of directors.

Edward B. Shires, M. D. medical director of the Rehabilitation Institute, 3600 Troost, Kansas City was the speaker.

Dr. Shires, who is also medical consultant at the Children's Therapy Center, at Bothwell Hospital, and advisor of the Western Missouri District of Muscular Dystrophy Association of America.

Introduced by the president of the Chapter, Mrs. D. H. Robinson, Dr. Shires explained the four large categories of muscular dystrophy types, of which approximately 80 percent are in the first group. This is the type that starts from the ages of two or three to ten and is first characterized by the increase in the size of the calves of muscles by fatty tissue. Practically all develop flaccid weakness of pelvis and perineal muscle, with a large percent developing a respiratory ailment before 20. Most are males and many have tightness of joints and marked weakness of the back.

About an equal number of girls and boys are in the second class, where muscles of the face, shoulder girdles and arms are affected. This may occur at any age, with a slower attack but all tend to end up in a wheel chair. Most usually survive for a normal life span.

The third type occurs from the first to third decade of life and starts in the shoulder or

Copters Collide In Viet Nam

Crash Kills 9 Yanks

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Two U.S. Army helicopters collided in the air and crashed in flames today at the Bien Hoa Air Base. Nine Americans were killed and two seriously injured.

A 10th American, a Marine, was killed when Viet Cong guerrillas and U.S. Marines fought a grenade battle before dawn six miles west of the Chu Lai beachhead 52 miles south of Da Nang. It was the first serious attack on the Marine defenses at Chu Lai, where U.S. Navy Seabees are building a jet airstrip.

Ten Marines were wounded, two of them seriously. Six Viet Cong bodies were found and a wounded guerrilla was captured.

The two helicopters collided about 50 to 100 feet up and crashed in an open patch of ground 200 yards from the helicopter area of the Bien Hoa base 15 miles north of Saigon. Both were troop-carrying craft attached to the 118th U.S. Army Helicopter Company.

Eight of the occupants were killed outright and the ninth died three hours later in the base hospital.

Aviators from the company rushed to the scene and pulled the three injured men from the wreckage. Wreckage was strewn over a large area.

First reports said one of the helicopters was returning from Saigon with an Army helicopter crewman who had been injured several days ago in the foot by a Viet Cong bullet. He was returning to his unit.

The other ship reportedly was leaving the helicopter pad outside the Vietnamese 3rd Corps headquarters.

"They met at the same place," an eyewitness said.

The helicopters collided about 50 feet up. One burst into flames. The other appeared to break up in the air, then caught fire.

On May 16 a series of explosions smashed through lines of U.S. and Vietnamese bombers at the other side of the Bien Hoa base, killing 26 Americans and injuring more than 100. U.S. officials said that also was an accident, but an investigation is still under way.

Income Edges Upward For Many Citizens

464,000 Move Out Of Poverty Level, Report Indicates

WASHINGTON (AP) — Approximately 464,000 American families took a giant step last year. Their income edged over the $3,000 mark — and out of what the administration defines as the "poverty bracket."

At the happier end of the scale, a Census Bureau report today also showed, the number of families with incomes of $10,000 or more increased by 1.4 million.

And the median — middle — income increased too from $6,249 to $6,569. That's a 5-per cent jump from 1963 and 57-per cent from 1954. Prices also rose, though, so the increase in purchasing power was only 4 per cent.

The median income is the exact middle income for the 47.8 million American families. That is, half of them are below that level and half above.

Some 17.6 per cent of American families, or 8.4 million, had incomes below $3,000 compared to 18.5 per cent in 1963. Almost 32 per cent had incomes below $3,000 in 1954.

Some 10,800,000 families had incomes of $10,000 or more in 1964. This represented 22 per cent compared to 20 per cent in 1963 and less than 6 per cent in 1954.

More than one out of every 20 families had incomes of at least $15,000 compared to one out of 100 in 1954.

The median income of Negro families was $5,814 compared to $7,720 for whites. Thirty-seven per cent of Negro families were below the poverty line while 15.4 per cent of white families were in that category.

Bad Cell Develops In Battery

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. — A bad battery cell today forced postponement of a practice flight for next week's orbital mission by astronauts James McDivitt and Edward White. Officials said there was a possibility the trouble could delay the June 3 launching.

At Space Agency headquarters in Washington, however, it was indicated that there would be a postponement.

The agency announced that a news conference would be held at Cape Kennedy at 4 p.m. EST on "flight plan changes."

Information officers declined to explain the significance of this wording but conceded that it indicated that changes in the Gemini 4 flight plan would be outlined.

Mission director Christopher C. Kraft Jr., said a decision whether to postpone the astronauts' trip would be made late Saturday or Sunday after the battery had been changed and several evaluation tests had been made.

The battery problem turned up today shortly after McDivitt and White began running through a rehearsal for their four-day orbital trip.

The battery is located in an equipment section attached to the base of the Gemini 4 spacecraft. It is one of four similar batteries which provide power to vehicle systems during flight.

Each of the six batteries has enough power for 400 hours, so with one out the spacecraft still would have 2,000 hours of power. The flight requires only about 100 hours, but officials said they want to be on the safe side in case several batteries should fail in flight.

Jordan Raids By Israeli Paratroopers

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israeli paratroopers and infantrymen made three raids into neighboring Jordan Thursday night and claimed destruction of a fuel depot and six buildings used as bases for sabotage raids on Israel.

A Jordanian military spokesman said the Israelis, in blowing up two farmhouses, killed two farmers and two children and injured four other farmers. The Israelis said they made sure all the buildings were uninhabited before destroying them.

An Israeli communiqué said seven Israeli soldiers were injured, four seriously, when a grenade exploded accidentally as they were returning to Israel.

The Jordanian spokesman said Jordanian forces clashed with two of the Israeli patrols, injuring the commander of one of them. Neither side reported any Jordanian military casualties.

The Jordan government said it reported the attacks to the Arab Joint Supreme Command, the current Cairo meeting of the Arab premiers and the U.N. Security Council. It also called for an urgent meeting of the U.N. Mixed Armistice Commission in Jerusalem.

The spokesman said Jordan would not retaliate for the raids because it had previously told the Arab command in Cairo it would retaliate to an Israeli attack only in accordance with the unified command's plans, not on its own.

He added that the Jordanian government had warned Israel "that Jordan's self restraint is not unlimited."

Communist Hearings Completed

CHICAGO (AP) — The House Committee on Un-American Activities has concluded three days of hearings on communism in Illinois, marked by an abundance of demonstrations and a lack of testimony.

Only two witnesses, both FBI informers, testified. Nine others pleaded constitutional protection against testifying or walked out of the hearing room.

During the final day of hearings Thursday, police and federal marshals arrested 38 demonstrators, some for singing in the hearing room, others for raising a commotion outside the building. Two demonstrators suffered head cuts trying to break through police lines.

Rep. Edwin E. Willis, D-Ill., committee chairman, said the committee had received a rounded picture of Communist activities.

Willis said the committee had acquired additional information of Communist operations among youths and peace groups and of agitation in the housing field and in civil rights groups.

Willis said committee contempt action would be recommended against two witnesses who walked out Thursday after refusing to testify.

One of the two witnesses, Dr. Jeremiah Stamler, 45, prominent heart disease specialist, was characterized by the committee counsel as "one of those in charge of setting up the Communist party underground" in the early 1950s.

The committee counsel, Alfred M. Nittle, raised the point while questioning another witness, Laura Bough, 34, of San Francisco. She refused to answer.

When Dr. Stamler went on the witness stand, he gave his name and address, but refused further testimony.

An assistant to Dr. Stamler in the research division of the Chicago Board of Health, Yolanda Hall, also walked out after declining to answer questions. "I am now and always have been a loyal American citizen," she said.

Prejudice and Discourtesy

Prejudice was the subject of a high school student panel discussion at Sedalia Kiwanis meeting which left listeners with a definite conclusion there is not only considerable bias in the world but also some right here in Sedalia.

From a human relations standpoint, prejudices are not as pronounced in our community as they were a half century ago. That's a long time to show improvement, but improvement there has been particularly so in the last decade.

As one of the panel members remarked, complete abolition of prejudice will not come in his lifetime. He is probably right because the characteristic is as deeply seated in man as the tap root of a huge oak in the forest. A German philosopher expressed it tersely when he said all prejudices have their origin in the intestines. That's low down.

Prejudice is not just confined to racial bias either. It embraces a broad area of human conduct such as unreasonable objections against anything, especially having an opinion without just grounds or sufficient knowledge about a subject matter.

Maybe we are stretching the comparison a bit by trying to tie in some forms of human behavior with prejudice, but an example is the impolite, inattentive and whispering reception given speakers appearing before service clubs, or even preachers while delivering sermons. This properly is discourtesy which likely is related to subconscious prejudice.

Having an opinion without just grounds probably accounts also for the discourteous attitude of many audiences toward speakers appearing before Sedalia city council meetings. Demonstrations of laughing or clapping when a speaker appeared before city council was so pronounced at the last session that Councilman Walker and Jesse were impelled to express their lack of appreciation over such behavior.

Indeed, it should never happen, but it does.

Prejudice, bias, discourtesy, intolerance are not going to be overcome as long as human beings can't even restrain an outburst of bad manners in the city council room, the civic club meeting or in the church.

Help For Lindsay In Mayoralty Race

DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — There is more than meets the eye in the unanimous Supreme Court decision slapping down Glenn Cunningham, the rabble-rousing congressman from Omaha, and his attempt to restrict Communist literature from the U.S. mails.

No. 1—The decision will have repercussions on the election of the next mayor of New York.

No. 2—It should give more backbone to politicians in both the Republican and Democratic parties when it comes to standing up against witch-hunting.

Up in New York City where the Republican party is grooming a new hopeful, John Lindsay, for mayor, later for president, the Supreme Court decision will strengthen his prestige. For only two congressmen, John Lindsay and William Fitz Ryan, Democrat, had the courage to vote against the Cunningham amendment.

The congressman from Omaha had made it appear that anyone was pro-Communist who voted against his requirement that those who wanted Communist mail delivered to them must notify the post office. As a result of his forensics every member of the House chickened on the constitutional right for freedom to read except Lindsay and Ryan.

Last January, Ryan, a Democrat, had the courage to stand up on the House floor and challenge the right of Mississippi congressmen to take their seats because of Mississippi's denial of Negro voting rights. No one expected him to get more than a handful of votes, but he rolled up so many that sentiment has now swung in his direction and the Mississippi congressmen may well be unseated.

McCarthyism Revived

To get the full significance of the Supreme Court's decision you have to go back to 1961, which was six years after Senate censure of the late Joe McCarthy brought an end to witch-hunting. Supposedly McCarthyism was dead. However, GOP Congressman Cunningham, darling of the John Birchites, Rev. Billy James Hargis and the Texas oil tycoons, seized on the Communist mail issue and fanned it. Since the United States wants its literature sent through the mails of Communist countries, it does not object to having Communist literature sent through our mails. In addition, as the Supreme Court has now held, the Constitution provides that any citizen shall have the right to read what he wants.

Rep. Cunningham, who opposes this right, tacked his amendment on to the postal rate increase bill in September 1961.

Since the Kennedy administration wanted to raise postal rates more than it wanted to protect civil liberties, it didn't object. Only one man in the Post Office Department, Tyler Abell of the legal division, did his best to block the amendment. It finally passed the House in January 1962 after Rep. Ryan tried his best to defeat it. Only his Republican colleague Lindsay voted with him.

In the Senate hearings, Cunningham made an impassioned plea for adoption, deliberately twisting the facts. But the Kennedy administration sent word to get the postal rate increase adopted no matter what; to pass the question of constitutionality on to the Supreme Court. This was what finally happened.

Ed Murrow's Plea
The late Edward R. Murrow, already seriously ill, dragged himself down to the Senate post office hearings to make a dramatic plea in opposition to the Cunningham amendment. He told how the U.S. Information Agency had worked to get U.S. propaganda distributed in foreign countries and how this was sure to undo all our efforts.

His plea fell on frightened ears. The Senate post office committee voted the easy course. And on the Senate floor the only senator with the courage to stand up and fight was Joe Clark, the ex-mayor of Philadelphia, who, working with post office attorney Tyler Abell, drafted three amendments.

The first, to kill the Cunningham amendment altogether, got nowhere. Most senators agreed that the Communist mail restriction was unconstitutional but they were scared out of their wits by the Billy Hargises and the Birchites. They passed the buck to the Supreme Court.

On Clark's second amendment, a milder version, he persuaded 23 senators. But he still lost. His third amendment passed the buck to the president by giving him the power to restrict Communist mail "if in the national interest." Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., the majority leader, supported this.

"Does the senator speak for the administration when he makes this recommendation?" asked Sen. Tom Kuchel.

"I speak for the senator from Montana," replied Mansfield, hastily making it clear that President Kennedy was taking no part in the controversy.

Only administration official playing a part in the opposition was young attorney Abell. Even on this vote, Sen. Clark got only 33 votes. Again he lost. Among those who had the courage to stand up and be counted were several senators up for election later who had some reason to fear the right wing backlash of an apparent vote for communism.

Among them were Burdick, N.D., Carroll, Colo., Jackson, Wash., McCarthy, Minn., McGee, Wyo., Moss, Utah, Muskie, Me., Pastore, R.I., Randolph, W.Va., Williams, N.J., Yarborough, Tex., Young, Ohio, Church, Idaho, Symington, Mo. They voted their convictions, not political expediency. Everyone of them was re-elected except Carroll of Colorado.

All of which would indicate that McCarthyism is just about as dead as its author, even if some senators and the vast majority of the House don't know it.

The World Today

'End of An Age' In Type of Leaders

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — It's too quiet. It's like the end of an age.

There's been hardly a time in the past 30 years when the world didn't have at least one loud-mouth, or an eloquent man whose syllables sounded like the footsteps of history, or one who set fear and fury afire.

In those three decades there has been only one real comedian of top stature — Nikita Khrushchev — although he was funny in a grisly way.

But now there's no one in sight to fit any of those categories except Cuba's Fidel Castro, who can shout five hours at a stretch. He's been strangely silent lately, or almost silent.

No one has ever replaced the warm, calm, sometimes cutting, sometimes indignant, sometimes outraged tones of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, who used words to reassure or arouse a responsive nation.

And perhaps never again in history will anyone become so truly and completely a spokesman for the very human and earnest convictions of mankind as Sir Winston Churchill.

There's no one quite like Benito Mussolini anymore. Even though he blew up his ego with his own homemade bicycle pump until he looked like an overinflated balloon in a tailor shop, he had to be listened to.

Since he and his Fascist party held the Italians captive and enthralled, and since he was vicious and unpredictable, he could be a menace, as he proved.

Yet even he was outdone by that animal with a mustache, Adolf Hitler.

Indians worshipped Mohandas Gandhi, not only for what he said but what he did, and they respectfully followed Prime Minister Nehru, an intellectual whose words were examined in Europe, Asia and America as well as in India.

Today in this country there is probably not more than one American out of 10 who could say offhand that the Indian replacement for Gandhi and Nehru is Prime Minister Shastri, a self-effacing little man.

President Truman was not an orator. His greatness was in his vision and his decisiveness. President Eisenhower, who inherited a troubled country in 1952, made a career as keeper of the peace, which didn't need oratory so much as patience.

President Johnson talks a lot, either to newsmen trotting around his rose garden after him or on television. But his memorable words are few. Only three come easily to mind: "The great society."

His speeches have lacked literary excellence. Sometimes, even when he is most intense, he dilutes the intensity with homely touches, like references to "my little office" or his Texas boyhood.

And even when he explained sending troops into the Dominican Republic and Viet Nam he made no appeal to national emotion for it was not his intention to arouse but to reassure, which is how Eisenhower operated.

Johnson, as a figure in history, will probably be remembered, like Truman, more for what he does, or doesn't do, than for what he says.

President Kennedy, a much more fastidious phrasemaker, might have reached great heights as a speaker if in his time the country had had to endure great and prolonged crises. But it didn't.

His speeches, particularly the most idealistic ones, like his inaugural address, were so obviously worked over they often looked self-conscious, which made them harder to absorb than Churchill's or Roosevelt's. Those two used a simpler touch that lay closer to the skin of experience.

French President Charles de Gaulle, master of language and eloquent these past 25 years when he chose to be, hardly talks in public any more, spreading his news conferences and public addresses far apart.

The French people of today seem placid. And De Gaulle is letting them stay that way.

Khrushchev, the most bouncy, ebullient, talkative, performing world leader of these past 30 years, is stone-silent now, shoveling aside last October.

His two successors — Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and Party Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev — are like a couple of quiet butlers in a Soviet pantry.

But in the almost 10 years he did his act on the world stage Khrushchev was watched and listened to, whether he was banging his shoe on a desk at the United Nations or acting as funeral director for capitalism when he told it: "We will bury you."

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Proper Diet, Example Aid Overweight Child

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Association

Overweight children become overweight adults unless steps are taken to bring their weight down. About 25 per cent of our teen-aged population has been found to be overweight. The proportion is higher in the girls than in the boys. It has been amply proved that these youngsters are shortening their lives by carrying this excess fat.

The causes of obesity in children are complex. Underactivity is as much a factor as overeating. The obese child is often merely copying the eating habits of the rest of the family. In some, however, the trouble starts with a trip to the hospital or with some severe emotional upset.

A great variety of emotional problems may be responsible. These tend to work in a vicious cycle. As the child becomes more obese he becomes more upset or embarrassed by his deviation from the norm and he seeks solace in eating. At the same time the child becomes more withdrawn and less interested in physical activity.

Before anything can be done to reduce his weight he must have a strong desire to help himself (and I don't mean to a candy bar). No one can do his dieting for him but mother can do much to smooth the way.

Feed him several small meals a day rather than three large ones. Offer him foods that are high in protein and low in sugars, starches and fats. Cut away the fat from the meat before serving. Give the child snacks of low-calorie fruits and skim milk. Don't rely on appetite-depressing drugs to solve the problem.

Remember that an obese child who is growing does not need to lose weight. Just keep him from gaining and his normal growth will bring him into line. Stress the advantages of a trim appearance. Praise him for small successes but avoid shaming or scolding for failures.

Serving meals on a smaller plate will make it appear that he is getting more than he actually is. Help him find satisfactions in physical activity rather than eating. Provide a peaceful environment by avoiding emotional crises and never let him doubt for a minute that he is a cherished and valued member of the household. Above all, set a good example by not overeating yourself.

Obesity in children is a many-sided problem for which there is no single, simple solution. The diet you provide must give your child all the essential nutrients but in controlled amounts. Remember, the child's future health and happiness depend on it.

For Next Class

Call Yale Course Critique 'Inside Dope' Publication

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — If a Yale professor wants to know what his students really think of him as a teacher he can find out by buying a student publication called the "Yale Course Critique."

This 200-page volume is an inside-dope report from this year's sophomores to next year's freshmen and sophomores. But it also is read by faculty members.

A senior professor with a wide reputation as a scholar might find out from the critique that his undergraduate students think he is "stale."

A young woman instructor might discover that her all-male classes think she's "unbelievably sweet."

One example from the 1965 edition says a course "is invariably described as dull — 'boring with a capital B' as one student put it homework counts little, is graded liberally."

Occasionally the editors are more critical of students than faculty.

For instance:

"Mr. Cook — Asst. Prof. Robert M. Cook — attempts through his Sociology 200 course to fight the obsessive, grade-grubbing, anti-educational mentality of many Yale students. Unfortun-nately, many enrollees do no more than a fraction of the reading."

The ability to make a course interesting and challenging, a personal interest in students, and a sense of humor seem to be the most appreciated qualities in Yale teachers.

Humor, or the lack of it, almost invariably draws comment. But a professor who gets carried away by his own anecdotes is likely to have his lectures called "irrelevant" or even "meaningless."

The student editors don't hesitate to turn up their noses at teachers who they think talk down to them, can be drawn off the subject, or are fooled by the parroting of pet phrases.

Yale's course critique is a money-making project of the Yale Daily News, the student newspaper. The 1965 edition, the most ambitious yet, sells for $1.95 a copy.

According to a Daily News editor, the critique has always been "pretty much a sophomore project" primarily designed to inform students who are new on campus.

A similar publication, "Confidential Guide to Courses," is published by the Harvard Crimson.

Reactions to these publications seem to fall into two categories.

One side says students aren't qualified to criticize the learned, experienced men on the faculty. The other side maintains that no one knows better than students whether they're learning anything.

Although the Yale critique is entirely a student operation, it has an unofficial "adviser," Andrew Patterson Jr., associate professor of chemistry.

Patterson has been critical, but not hostile. He has charged that previous critiques have perhaps had plenty of "sharp and incisive writing" but were often ill-informed and one-sided. This year the student editors adopted some of his suggestions and circulated detailed questionnaires among students in each class so that a consensus, rather than one person's opinion, could be obtained.

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

John Sneed, sophomore at Missouri Valley College, has been elected vice-president of the Lambda chapter of Pi Kappa Delta, a national forensic fraternity. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Sneed of Sedalia.

—1940—

L. C. Heuerman, Jr., who recently purchased the Crawford residence property, Sixteenth street and Kentucky avenue, from Mrs. Grant Crawford, has moved there from the residence at 509 West Third street. Mr. Heuerman is night engineer for the Sedalia Water company.

FORTY YEARS AGO

By reason of a Supreme Court decision Prosecuting Attorney Roy W. Rucker will receive an increase in salary of $2,500 per year together with an allowance of $900 per year for a stenographer. With this increase the prosecutor's compensation will be $4,500 annually and the state will pay for his stenographer instead of him having to pay for it out of his own funds. The decision is retroactive to June 21, 1921, in consequence of which Don Lamm and Sam James, former prosecutors, will receive pay in proportion to the time they held the office. By the decision the official population of Pettis county is now 35,000.

DEAR POLLY — Remove the metal ends from an old window shade roller. Saw off a 15-inch piece of the roller and you will have a nice rolling pin for pastry. I have been using one for 10 years. — ELIZABETH.

GIRLS — When you use Elizabeth's rolling pin idea you might remember a recent Pointer for using a clean old nylon stocking as a cover for a pastry rolling pin. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — After ironing one of my husband's long sleeve shirts, I open a paper clip so that it looks like a long skinny C and slip each end through the buttonhole in each cuff. This joins the sleeves neatly across the front of the shirt, eliminates tangling and wrinkling.

I, too, have a pet use for an empty plastic bleach bottle. I cut it in half and punch holes in the bottom with a heated ice pick. I put this in my sink and peel potatoes, carrots, etc., over it. Water drains through the bottom, the mess is all in one place and my sink is clean. I like to have this about six inches deep so all those peels are caught as they come off the peeler. — JOYCE

DEAR POLLY — Many mothers have trouble teaching their little ones to set the table correctly. I paste a picture of an attractive table setting to a piece of cardboard and hang it inside the cabinet door where the dishes or glasses are kept. — DELORES

DEAR POLLY — If you have a dark closet or even just a dark shelf in a closet that has no light in it, hang a mirror on the back wall so it will reflect the light that comes in the door. The mirror need not be a perfect one, may be hung on the wall or set on the floor or a shelf. You will be surprised at the difference it makes. — CAROL

Hearnes Reviews Testimony On Grand River Basin Plan

BROOKFIELD, Mo. (AP)—Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has 15 hours of testimony on tape to help him decide whether Missouri should endorse a $287 million plan to build seven flood control dams in the Grand River basin in northwest Missouri.

Will Davis, the governor's press secretary, said Hearnes has reviewed some of the testimony from five public hearings this week and may make a decision Friday.

The final hearing erupted in a brief shouting match Wednesday afternoon between rival factions in an overflow crowd of around 900 in the auditorium at Brookfield High School.

Russell N. Pickett, Trenton attorney representing the Grand River Development Corp. in opposition to the dams, over-ran the five-minute time limit on speeches.

Part of the crowd protested when Davis, as presiding officer withdrew the microphone. Their rivals shouted for Pickett to sit down.

Davis said it was the first outburst in the five hearings and warned there would be no more.

Pickett climaxed his clients' opposition to the dams with the charge the Army Corps of Engineers and the Missouri Water Resources Board were spreading false information — "damn lies," he said.

"The Grand River Development Corp. is the only legally recognized organization in the territory not dominated by the Corps of Engineers," Pickett said.

A standing vote indicated those at the Brookfield hearing were about 3-to-1 for the flood control project.

Brookfield and its area are among the sections that would gain flood protection without losing much land to the reservoirs. Strongest opposition is from parts of nine counties where about 350,000 acres of farm land would be covered by water.

Clara Guilford, river observer at Summer for the Weather Bureau, sketched the problem in the lower basin when she said she has recorded 68 floods on the Grand in the past nine years. It was out of its banks 291 days, many times it was four feet above the overflow stage and once it was 13½ feet above its banks.

"The agricultural economy of the area is floating away on the annual floods," said Jay Monroe Rusk of Brookfield, vice president of the Missouri-Arkansas Basins Flood Control and Conservation Association.

"This is a pretty solid plan to alleviate some of our problems and bring about proper water management."

Harry Porter, attorney at Marceline, said:

"This is our great opportunity. The great majority of the residents of northwest Missouri would benefit. No great development was ever achieved without causing difficulty for some."

The mayors of Brookfield, Mendon and Salisbury spoke for the dams. The county courts of Linn and Chariton counties entered endorsements. The Sullivan County Court filed an objection.

Testimony by the opponents included:

A. D. Peterson of Browning said only those below the dams would benefit.

H. C. Freeland, administrator of the Sullivan County Hospital at Milan, said before many years the growing population will require the use of all available farm land. Concern for recreation facilities should give way to frugality, work and good management, he said.

Miss Linda Johnson of Jamestown expressed a concern about jobs.

"What do I do at the dams?" she asked. "Do I stand on a hillside and pick up beer cans?"

"We like our community as it is—we don't want a dam," said Mrs. G. W. Prather of Browning.

O. H. Williams of St. Catherine said the Corps of Engineers placed such a high value on the water to be stored it sounded like they were pricing good drinking whisky.

Previous testimony was taken at Chillicothe, Gallatin, Bethany and Princeton.

The flood control plan drawn up by the engineers cannot be submitted to congress unless it is endorsed by Missouri. It and local governments will be called upon contribute about $20 million.

About Town

Something very unusual happened last week when John W. Palmer, Jr., St. Louis, brought his wife, Patti, back to Sedalia to bury her in the Palmer lot in Crown Hill Cemetery. Among those gathered at the graveside with him for the services here were all but one of the officers of the 1927 graduating class of Smith - Cotton High School of which he was sergeant-at-arms.

After all those years here they were when he needed them most. William A. Schien, president of the student body; William E. Hurlbut, Jr., president of the senior class; Marjorie Werner Patton, vice-president; Robert M. Johns, Jr., treasurer; Roseanne Dugan Johns, reporter; Naomi Tanksley Schien, beauty queen, and Sarah Kaiser Van Dyne, carnival queen. All still live in Sedalia.

The only officer not there was Russell Smith, secretary, who lives in Springfield.

Several other classmates were also at the cemetery. The 1927 class was the first year that Heber U. Hunt was with the Sedalia School System.

Fine Season Is Seen For Area Ban Johnson Squads

Defending Champ Sedalia Opens Against Cardinals

The Central Missouri Ban Johnson League embarks on what promises to be one of its finest seasons May 30 as five games dot the league slate.

Defending league champion Sedalia opens its schedule at home against Tipton, while Jefferson City, back in the league after a one-year absence, travels to Columbia. Other games have Mexico at Moberly, Lexington at Marshall and Clinton at Boonville. Clinton played under the Lowry City banner last year.

The league has adopted a split schedule with one ten-team circuit in operation and prospects are bright for the best balanced field in many years.

Sedalia, coached by Don Crank, rates the top spot in the pre-season poll. The Chiefs, winners of 19 out of 20 games in the league last summer, return six starters from the 1964 team, including lanky hurler Jim Snackenber, who was 9-1 last year.

Terry Fletcher, a 6-1 pitcher in 1964, has moved and Crank will look for pitching help from high schoolers Jim Thomas and Jim Johnson. Johnson was a member of the team last summer. Others back for another year are Bob Nagel and Paul Horner, infielders, Lonnie Schott and outfielder-catcher Bill Ferguson. Schott was the No. 2 hitter on the team with a .400 mark in 1964.

Columbia, handled by Tony Antimi—the dean of the B-J managers—won the Eastern Division crown from Moberly last year and will be a contender for the crown this year. Ken Ash, hard-throwing righthander, will return to head up the A's mound staff, which will include University of Missouri hurlers Eddie Sutton. Ash handed Sedalia its only league loss last year, 6-2, in the opening game of the final playoffs. The Chiefs came back to whip the A's 9-8 and 16-0 to win the title.

Columbia returns six players from their 1964 club. Others besides Ash are Skip Baird, Dan Woodward, Charles Cottle and Dan Schuppan. Cottle topped the team in hitting with a .329 while Schuppan hit .328. Ash was 3-1 for the campaign.

The Jefferson City entry, back in the league after an absence due to non-sponsorship last year, should be near the top of the heap. The team won league titles in 1961-62-63.

Al Boessen, star lefthander who carried the 1963 team with his fine pitching and 10-2 record, will return and new manager Mendal Rozier looks for help from Clayton Read, Mike Howell and John Krautmann.

Ron Maason, up from Legion ball where he hit .319, Harry Idel, Larry Earlywine, Doug Blank and Read, all members of the 1963 championship outfit, should give the Bears plenty of hitting punch.

Boonville, under new manager John Woolridge, a former player in the league, returns

Seed Company Into First In Trap Shooting

The Missouri Seed Company moved into the top position of the Wednesday Night Trap Shooting League at the Sedalia Rod and Gun Club. The leaders have a total of 304 targets and lead over second place Farmers Merchants Bank of Green Ridge, whose score is 298.

The standings are as follows: S and M Athletic Goods 288; Dugans Paint Co. 286; Broadway Lanes 282; while Palmer's Barber Shop and New Empire Ins., are tied with 280 each; Cash Hardware holds 275 and McCown Bros. Salvage a 270.

The Grasshopper derby shoot ended up in ties all over the place with Bernard Dove and Vernon Arnett, both of Green Ridge, shooting 24's; Richard Arnett, Green Ridge, and Bill Steljes, Sedalia, tied for second with 21; Bill Norman, Green Ridge, and Gene Hollenbeck, Green Ridge, tied for third with 18 each.

High scorers for the night were Bernard Dove, Green Ridge, and Charles Thomas, Sedalia, both with 25's; while Bill Steljes, Sedalia, Eddie Schneider, Warsaw, and John Rose, Sedalia, all tied for third with 24 each.

six players and should give the top three teams in the circuit a run for their money. The team finished 18-12 last season and wound up second in the division behind Sedalia.

Pitchers John Repp and Conny Twenter are back along with outfielders Joe Harris and Dale Jennings; second baseman Sonny Stocklein; and catcher David Neckerman. Woolridge expects help from newcomers Leon Stuckenmeyer, Wayne Sells and Ted Stock.

Tipton, with Harry Clutter beginning his second season, should be the most improved team in the circuit. The Cardinals return eight players from the 1964 team, including pitchers Don Richardson, Bo Knipp and John Laker.

Others returning at Tipton are Ron Richardson, Dean Akin, Dave Knipp, Bob Carter, Gene Hirst and Ron Edwards. Edwards will handle the catching chores for the Cards, while Richardson will hold down second base and Akins third.

Mexico and Moberly, both with new managers, will open their seasons against each other Gary Cooper, who managed baseball in the Air Force, takes the reigns at Mexico and could bring the Ramblers into contention with some help from hurlers Joe Caldwell and Ray Engert. Both return from 1964. Others back are pitcher-outfielder Dave Wilkinson, outfielder Jim Neifert, who also catches; second baseman Gary Dixon and third sacker Larry Gore. Help is expected from newcomers Bob Nebrough, Walley Mills, Ron Johnson and hurler Ron Davis.

Moberly, with Bob Jenkins, former MU hurler, managing, will build around pitchers John Thomas, Tim Shea and returning players Jim Ballinger, Ken Meinert and Don Chandler. Ballinger was the team's top hitter with a .302 last year, while Thomas led the pitchers with a 4-3 mark. The Stars' biggest need is in the catching department, with some infield help welcome as well.

Lexington, always a power in the Western Division of the circuit, is expected to field another good team this time around, while Marshall and Clinton could pull some surprises before the season ends. Bob Nightwine is the new manager at Marshall, while Paul Greene takes the reigns at Clinton and Lee Ellis manages Lexington.

In all, there are six new managers taking the field for the first time in the Ban Johnson circuit this Sunday.

The first half of the schedule will run until Sunday, June 27, and the second half will open on June 30 and ends Aug. 1, barring postponements.

In Jaycee Race

70 Drivers Set To See Action

Seventy drivers battle here Sunday on the half-mile track at the Missouri State Fairgrounds as the Sedalia Jaycees sponsor their fifth annual Memorial Day races.

Entries this week boosted the number of drivers up from 50, and latecomers can be expected to push the field even higher. Russell Hibbard, Slater, a familiar pilot in this area, heads up the latest batch of competitors. He was running first when the feature was halted by rain last May 30 and is former state modified king and former Central Missouri Racing Association champ.

Two top Kansas Citians who joined the pack this week are Ray Lee Goodwin and Wes Fer-rand. Goodwin wheels a Corvet-powered auto and is high in point standings on the city modified tracks.

Added to drivers already in like Kenny and Jerry Weld, Jack Belk, Bud McCune, Ken Taylor, Gordon Wooley and Bill Utz, the field for this year's 138-lap racing program appears the best in the event's history.

Open competition was declared this year and the top 24 qualifiers in the time trials tangle in the 50-lap main feature. The second 24 highest qualifiers go in a 25-lap semi-feature event. Preliminaries include a trophy dash for the six top cars and six 10-lap heat races.

Timing in begins at 11 a. m. and races roll at 1 p. m. This year's main feature purse was boosted to $1,000—largest ever offered for modified events in this region while the total prize money amounts to $3,000.

Drivers in the speed class to date include:

Howard Scott, Jacksonville, Mo.; Ernie Buso, Sedalia; Dean Elliott, California; Russell Hibbard, Slater; Ray Scott, Marshall; Doug Crank, Sedalia; Wes Ferrand, Kansas City; Jack Hart, Versailles; Bill Blackburn, Versailles; Tommy Coleman, Columbia; Bob Williams, Kansas City; Jim Leighty, Carrollton; Bill Ward, Carrollton; Dale Moore, Kansas City; Gary Wilson, New Bloomfield; Jack Hayes, Fulton; Dee Lowe, Belton; Ray Lee Goodwin, Kansas City; Don Melte, Cowgill, Mo.; Tom Corbin, Carrollton; Jack Belk, Joplin; Bud McCune, LaCleda; Dale McDaniel, Fort Scott, Kan.; Dick Sutcliffe, Kansas City; Bobby Ford, Marshall; Jerry Tarwater, Harrisville; Bob (Boo Boo) Baker, Columbia; Leslie Hansen, Sedalia; Gordon Wooley, Kansas City; Bill Utz, Sedalia; George Lasoski, Dover.

Jay Woodside, Overland Park, Kan.; Kenny Harper, Carrollton; Ray Dial, Osawatomie, Kan.; Ervin Schick, Kansas City; Cliff Lilly, Kansas City; Art Disher, Gladstone; J. L. Cooper, Kansas City; Taylor Weld, Kansas City; Gene Kester, Gladstone; Jerry Weld, Kansas City; Ken Williams, Kansas City; Sam Austin, Kansas City; Donald Cooper, Sedalia; Al Murie, Kansas City; Don LaRue, Windsor; Virgil Chapman, Kansas City; Ja Stan Borofsky, Kansas City; Tom Frasher, Jefferson City; Ken Taylor, Slater; Mackie Tarwater, Raytown; Junior Hower, Kansas City; Sonny King, Kansas City; Lucky Niemeyer, Kansas City; J. J. Lyle, Warrensburg; Jim Jenkins, Gilliam; Freddie Hohman, California, Mo.; Lloyd Willhite, Windsor; Roy Hibbard, Marshall; Kenny Weld, Kansas City; Tommy Maycock, Waverly; Gene Markes, Marshall; Gene Gennetten, Gladstone and Bill Hollifield, Gladstone.

The champion, who heads for his Louisville home today, already is promoting his next bout although no arrangements for a bout have been announced.

Mentioning Canadian George Chualvo as a possible opponent, Clay talked about a "white hope" being good for boxing.

"There should be some white heavyweights in Europe as well as in the country who could provide a challenge for me or any heavyweight who becomes a champion."

He also said he would like to fight Ernie Terrell, recognized as heavyweight champion by the World Boxing Association, adding:

"I would eat him up."

Way Back When . . .

IT WAS ANOTHER quiet day in the sports world, but locally, the Sedalia Public Golf Course, which was in its first year after being revamped, reported that local golfers were turning out in large numbers—slowly but surely.

Among some other attractions, the course featured sand "greens," which were proving to be satisfactory in spite of some skeptical tongues. Among those taking advantage of the course on this day in 1940 were Mrs. J. B. Dwyer, Sedalia, who shot a 44 and 48, while her brother, Harry Anderson of Springfield, shot a 44 and 42.

SPORTS FORECASTERS were getting ready again since Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare announced she would seek her seventh national women's golf crown at Pebble Beach, Del Monte, Calif., in September of that year.

Mrs. Vare had made the decision since ordinary, run-of-the-mill golf was proving to be a little unexciting.

SWITCHING BACK TO baseball again, we find that Chicago teams gave both St. Louis clubs some sound beatings on that day, with the Missourians going down 7-1 in the National League and 7-5 in the American.

In the American Association, things weren't much better for Kansas City then, either, since they lost 5-3 to Minneapolis. It was a tough day for state baseball followers.

Farmer And Hard Times 'Drop-Out' In Big Race By Player

By MIKE RATHET Associated Press Sports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Mr. James Clark Jr., O.B.E., a gentleman farmer of Duns, Scotland, and A. J. Foyt Jr., one of America's most distinguished high school dropouts, will start hub-to-hub in the 49th 500-mile Memorial Day auto race Monday.

It will be a head-on clash of the top men in two fields — Clark, 29, of the world road racing circuit, Foyt, 30, of the U.S. Auto Club's closed courses.

Clark made the Order of the British Empire on the queen's last birthday honors list. All Foyt made was a quarter million dollars last year.

Beside them in the first row, earned by posting best speeds in two weekends of record-cracking time trials, will be handsome Dan Gurney, 34, international competitor from Costa Mesa, Calif.

Gurney not only is a strong contender but also is godfather of the three British-American hybrid cars which will lead the 33-car running start about 11 a.m., EST, Monday.

He promoted the original meeting of Colin Chapman of London, builder of the Lotus chassis, and Ford Motor Co. engineers, who provided a special V-8 engine.

The winner of the half-million-dollar race has come from the first two rows in four of the last five years. Foyt won from a fifth place start last year and from seventh in 1961.

Parnelli Jones, who will start fifth or middle of the second row this time, both started and finished in the first spot in 1963. He will sit between two outstanding newcomers Monday — Mario Andretti, native of Italy and now living in Nazareth, Pa., and Billy Foster of Victoria, B.C.

The track's 10-mile qualifying record was bettered by Andretti, Clark and Foyt in the time trials but Foyt got it last at 161.233 m.p.h. Only the Scot and the USAC champion have ever turned laps over 160 at the 2½-mile speedway.

Clark, the 1963 world Grand Prix champion and No. 3 in the standings last year, finished only 33.84 seconds behind Jones in the controversial '63 Indianapolis race. Chapman tried to have Jones flagged off the course for spraying oil but officials refused.

Dick Groat's throwing error on an attempted inning-ending doubleplay in the second inning let in two runs after Houston had scored in the first when Eddie Kasko doubled and came

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from "Bitter 16" told how selfish most teen-age boys are—how they chase the two or three good-looking while the plain girls sit home, dateless and miserable.

Not ALL teen-age boys are that way. A few months ago I had an experience that proved it.

My hobby is photography. I was asked to run the photo concession at a prom. The big problem was the repeaters—those who kept coming back again and again.

One young ruggedly handsome fellow kept returning with a different girl every 20 minutes. I finally said, "You've had about 10 pictures taken, aren't you overdoing it?" He gave me a wink as he handed me his quarter.

A few minutes later he came back alone and whispered, "If you don't mind I'd like to bring a few more gals over. Some of the girls don't have dates to-night and I'd like to see that they have at least a souvenir picture."

This chap had been seeking out the wall-flowers and paying for the pictures himself. Sweet?—RENEWED FAITH.

Dear Renewed: You bet! I always knew there were such teen-agers around but I'm glad to let millions of others know it, too.

Dear Ann Landers: Vera and I are successful, middle-aged, unmarried career people. We've often congratulated each other on the joys of freedom.

Last night we discussed marriage as a "sporting proposition."

Dear Ann Landers: Both my husband and I teach. For several years summer school has kept us from enjoying a real vacation. This summer we want to take a two-month trip.

Yesterday my husband's mother announced that she'd like to join us. She is financially independent and will pay her own way. My husband said, "If mother comes along the trip will be ruined. I'd rather stay home."

My husband's two married sisters who live in this city go off on vacations very suddenly. We never know they are going until we get a post card from 800 miles away. I'm sure they disappear quietly to avoid unwanted company.

I don't want to hurt my mother-in-law's feelings. What should be done?—NINE O'CLOCK BELLE.

Dear Belle: Your husband should tell his mother that you have been looking forward to this "second honeymoon" and you want it to be just that.

Feeling as you do, if your mother-in-law is permitted to blast her way into your vacation you will all wish you'd have stayed home.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope.

TIGHT SQUEEZE, AT BEST—When Ralph Davis, a graduating senior at Baylor University, went for his cap and gown this week, he caused a stir among university officials. The largest cap in stock is a size seven and a half, and it set atop Davis' eight and five-eighths head like a teacup. The 260-pound Davis will have a cap by commencement time Saturday. ## A Sweet Hour of Victory For Marines In Viet Nam

By HAL BOYLE

LE MY, South Viet Nam (AP)—Fifty yards from the hand-laid rock road some natives were digging graves.

On the edge of the road on straw mats lay those for whom the graves were being dug. They were the bodies of the last two dihard guerrillas in the village of Le My.

"After they wounded one of our men yesterday" explained a U.S. Marine laconically "we cornered them in a house. They hid under a trapdoor. One of our fellows tossed in a grenade—and that did it."

Some 300 yards up the highway was the mobile jeep headquarters of one of the best-liked men on the battlefield here—Lt. Col. David A. Clement, 40, Jacksonville, Fla., commander of the 2nd Battalion of the U.S. 3rd Marine Regiment.

It was an hour of sweet victory for Clement and his men.

They had just completed a simple but colorful ceremony with local village officials during which they had reopened to traffic two bridges blown up by the Viet Cong.

The burying of the two slain enemy and the reopening of the repaired bridges doubly demonstrated that the key village of Le My had been made secure.

To Lt. Col. Clement, nicknamed "The Great Pacificator," it meant the solution of his biggest problem since he and his 1,000 men landed here early in April. The pacification of the area around the vital Da Nang air base had been a key task assigned to the U.S. Marines.

The Marines suffered a number of casualties in the village. It would have been easy for them to have razed it but this isn't that kind of a war.

The village finally was cleared by a delicate program of grenades for the enemy and good will gestures toward the general population.

Clement, a raw-boned man who weighs 200 pounds and stands three inches over six feet, is a 1945 Annapolis graduate who won a Silver Star as a

Paperhanger To Pass Up An Old Title

WINCHESTER, Va. (AP)—A retired paperhanger says he'll pass up one of the oldest titles in British aristocracy because he "hasn't any money and can't swim."

Newlon D'Arcy Wyvill, 69, expressed little surprise when told that Debrett's, Britain's directory of the aristocracy, indicated he is the rightful owner of the country's 10th most senior baronetcy.

"To me it don't mean a thing," the small camera-shy Wyvill said. "We've known the title was over there. If there were a few million dollars attached to it, I'd be very happy. Outside of that, no."

"Naturally I'm very proud," he said. It wouldn't be worth the time and expense to pursue claim to the title because I don't think there's any money over there," he said.

Debrett's, in its latest edition Wednesday, said that Wyvill is a descendant of Sir Richard Wyvill. Sir Richard was slain at the Battle of Towton Field in 1461 during the Wars of the Roses.

Sir Marmaduke Wyvill of Constable Burto, Yorkshire, was the last recognized baronet of the Wyvill family, Debrett's said. He died in 1774, survived by a cousin whose father emigrated to America during the reign of George II.

Debrett's said its researchers had traced this family to Newlon D'Arcy Wyvill.

Wyvill said his grandfather and his father were interested in the title, but his grandfather died before he could travel to England and his father "was just about like me. He didn't have any money and he couldn't swim."

company commander in Korea. He has six children ranging in age from 18 down to 6.

He was born with a Marine brand on him. His father was the late famed three-star Marine Gen. William T. Clement, one of the most popular officers the corps ever produced.

In six weeks here, Col. Clement's battalion has worked through a 46-square-mile area.

"Some of it is still hostile and we are still conducting operations," he said. "Our most tangible success has been in this village of Le My and we will soon have it operating normally."

Wyvill said he hadn't given his wife. He offered to sell the title to a reporter for $1.

"I don't know," he said. "I never did have anyone wait on me. I've done all my work myself." He could call himself Sir Newlon if he proved his right to the title.

Wyvill said he had conflicting information on whether any property is involved in the baronetcy.

Wyvill said he's content to enjoy his retirement here with

Declaratory Judgement Against CATV Ordinance Sought By Firm

'VUMORE' Seeks Action From Circuit Court Here

The VUMORE Company of Oklahoma City, one of the unsuccessful bidders for a CATV license here, Thursday petitioned the Circuit Court for a declaratory judgment asking the court to declare action of the City Council in granting such a license as beyond the scope of the council's authority.

Represented by local attorney, James T. Buckley, the VUMORE firm contends they were denied permission to construct and operate a community antenna TV system because they would not pay in excess of 10 per cent of its gross receipts from the operation—the figure guaranteed the city by successful bidders, Sedalia Cable TV, Inc., Iola, Kan.

Rights Are Harder To Come By

18-Year-Olds Can Vote, But Rights Confused By Law

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — "It was a heck of a lot easier to give 18-year-olds the right to vote than it has been to grant them legal rights. We're really messed up now."

That is a lawyer's comment six months after a Kentucky statute took effect lowering the age of majority to 18 in most instances.

The law lets 18-year-olds buy homes and automobiles, open charge accounts and secure loans on their own signatures — all without the customary red tape and permission of parents or guardians.

"There appears to be some confusion and contradiction surrounding this statute," Deputy Atty. Gen. Henri Mangel said. "We wish it had been written with more clarity and sharpness."

The bill's sponsor, Democratic State Sen. Thomas Brizendine of Franklin, says there might be room for slight revision by the 1966 legislature.

Older teen-agers don't seem to regard the age lowering as any great liberation. A spot check shows few even are aware of it except when they want to get married. Then they get intensely interested.

Seeks More Money For State Work

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., urged a senate appropriations subcommittee Thursday to provide $51.298,000 this year to continue work on Missouri water projects.

The amount asked by the senator for the year beginning July 1 is $12,895,000 more than is in the President's budget for Missouri projects. Symington said his recommendation would increase from $7 million to $14 million the appropriation for Kaysinger Bluff Reservoir.

"With the increasing demands put upon our water resources, not only in Missouri but throughout the nation, we believe it to be in the state and national interest to keep projects moving ahead in accordance with the full capability reported by the Army Engineers," Symington said in a statement filed with the committee.

Appropriations over budget recommendations were requested for:

Stockton Reservoir construction, from $10.5 million to $13 million; Chariton River flood control construction, from $1.1 million to $2.5 million; Missouri River channel stabilization from Omaha to Kansas City, $4.2 million to $4.8 million; and for survey of the Big Blue River at Kansas City, $25,000 to $30,000. Symington also asked money for these projects not included in the budget: Juanna Dam and Reservoir, land acquisition and construction, $1,000,000; Union Reservoir, Meramec Basin, planning, $200,000; Pattonburg Reservoir, planning, subject to authorization of the Grand River Basin projects, $100,000.

The ordinance adopted by the City Council on an emergency vote May 24 is "discriminatory, unreasonable and invalid," the petitioners say.

VUMORE contends the practical effect of the ordinance is to create a monopoly in the cable TV business and they further allege the tax levied is "so high as to virtually prohibit legitimate occupation and business." VUMORE also claims the city has no power to tax or license community antenna and closed - circuit electronic systems.

John Beatty is president of local investors listed as a part of the Oklahoma City CATV firm. Beatty is in the real estate business here.

The petition for declaratory judgment asks the Circuit Court to enjoin the city from imposing a license tax on the community antenna TV business and to further enjoin the city from preventing VUMORE from constructing such a system.

"Our intentions in this regard are not to ask that we be the sole organization to construct a cable television system," said attorney Buckley in a statement after the petition was filed in the office of Circuit Clerk Bryan Howe. "Nor are they to enjoin the present licensee from constructing a system. We are merely asking that as much as it is a competitive business, it remain without interference of the City Council."

Buckley's complete statement follows: "For the past 15 months there has been pending before the City Council various applications for permission to construct a CATV system within the city of Sedalia. For approximately one-half of this period the council has seen fit to delay action on this subject. Thus, further discussion was retarded. "Recently the City Council had a meeting at which time they allowed the applicants to submit their proposals to the city for them to determine whether a license would be granted."

Clarify Marriage License Waiting Period In State

With June the major month for marriages nearly here, officials of the county recorder's office today urged betrothed couples to contact the office for correct information about applications for licenses to marry. Some couples have been misinformed that the three-day waiting period applies on the blood test. Missouri law, however, provides a three-day waiting period between the application for a marriage license and the issuance of a license.

Friction With China Is Renewed

Russians Hint China Is Seeking New World War

MOSCOW (AP) — Smoldering Soviet-Red Chinese friction over the war in Viet Nam flared up Thursday. The Russians implied that the Chinese are trying to start a world war.

The Communist party organ Pravda, in an attack on Chinese policy, commented:

"It would be incorrect to hold that only a world war can bring about the unity of the Socialist camp and of all the world Communist movement." Pravda said true Communists should be occupied "not in waiting for a world war to break out, but in averting a chain of events that is liable to trigger it off."

Suspensions of Soviet-Chinese policy differences over Viet Nam were tacitly confirmed in the Pravda attack.

A more explicit admission of disagreements on this problem was made Wednesday by Hungarian Communist party Politburo member Dezso Nemes.

"We hope that, in spite of existing difficulties, a united stand will soon be established in concert with North Viet Nam," he said in a speech in Budapest.

Exports On Increase

ROME (AP) — Customs authorities report Italy exported more than it imported in March, a rare achievement. The figures were $644 million and $630 million. Officials said government pump-priming efforts were responsible.

Other Forces Enter

More U. S. Marines Are Returning Home

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — More U. S. Marines left the Dominican battlefield Thursday while reinforcements continued to pour in for the inter-American force taking over policing duties.

The USS Okinawa, with more than 1,000 6th Marine Division troops aboard as part of a floating reserve, hoisted anchor and left for an undetermined U.S. port. These troops had not debarked on Dominican soil.

Some 650 Marines belonging to the first units to land here a month ago where flown by helicopters to the carrier Boxer offshore Wednesday night. The ship was being loaded with supplies and equipment and will remain in Dominican waters until a small accompanying fleet is ready for departure.

The inter-American force created by the Organization of American States to help restore peace to the Dominican Republic has now grown to 1,042 Latin American troops with the arrival of more Brazilian units.

Teen-Agers March

School Issues Cause Protests

CHICAGO (AP)—A concerted rush by some 30 young men to crash a hearing by the House Un-American Activities Committee Thursday was broken up in a hand-to-hand grapple by police and federal marshals.

During the struggle and subsequent sit-down outside the building where the committee was holding its third and final day of hearings in Chicago, 38 demonstrators were arrested.

One youth was cut on the head during the melee.

The disturbance outside the former U.S. Court of Appeals building on Lake Shore Drive was preceded by ouster of four girl spectators from the courtroom where the committee was taking testimony.

They were removed when one of them rose and began to sing "America" while a witness, Dorothy M. Hayes, was being questioned. The other three stood up and joined in the singing, then the four were taken from the room.

Miss Hayes, of Chicago, was the ninth consecutive witness who refused to answer questions put by Alfred Nittle, committee counsel.

Nittle said during questioning of the unresponsive witnesses that several of them had been subpoenaed to give their versions of information given to the committee that they had been active in affairs of Communist-front organizations.

BULLETIN

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israeli army units penetrated Jordan territory at three places Thursday night and destroyed several installations, Israeli authorities announced early Friday.

They said the raids were in retaliation for raids into Israel from inside Jordan.

A communique said the Israeli soldiers tried to avoid loss of life among Jordanians. Seven Israeli soldiers were accidentally injured on the way back from the raids.

An army spokesman said the objective of the raids was bases where members of the Arab "El Fatta" sabotage organization were trained and from where they directed their penetrations into Israel to commit acts of sabotage, blowing up Israeli dwelling houses and causing damage to the national water pipeline (from the Sea of Galilee to the Negev Desert).

Objective No. 1 was in Shunna, to the east of the Jordan River (south of Sea of Galilee) near Naharayim, from where saboteurs had set out to damage the Israel water carrier in January, 1965.

Objective No. 2 was in Shunna, to the east of the Jordan River (south of Sea of Galilee) near Naharayim, from where saboteurs had set out to damage the Israel water carrier in January, 1965.

Objective No. 3 was in Shunna, to the east of the Jordan River (south of Sea of Galilee) near Naharayim, from where saboteurs had set out to damage the Israel water carrier in January, 1965.

Gen. Hugo Panasco Alvim of Brazil was expected to arrive Saturday to assume command of the hemisphere's first military contingent. Lt. Gen. Bruce Palmer Jr., commanding the 21,000 American troops in the Dominican Republic, is his deputy commander.

The force at present consists of 250 Hondurans, 159 Nicaraguans, 21 Costa Ricans and 612 Brazilians. Eventually the Brazilian contingent will number 1,170. U.S. troops here are also part of the force but will be reduced sharply.

Obviously bidding for U.S. recognition, the civil military junta headed by Gen. Antonio Imbert Barrera, called another demonstration of support.

Several thousand persons, including large delegations from the interior, gathered in front of the National Congress Palace to hear Imbert speak. Later they marched a quarter of a mile to the Hotel Embajador for another demonstration.

The disorders at the front entrance of the building started with a sudden surge while pickets, who took little or no part in them, strolled back and forth.

The gate-rushers gathered on the Lake Michigan beach across from the busy local and express traffic drive opposite the courthouse. Then, using a pedestrian tunnel beneath the drive, they dashed to the building.

Food, Gas, Clothing On Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Food, clothing and gasoline led a wave of price increases that boosted living costs three-tenths of one per cent last month, the government reported Thursday.

It was the biggest April jump in five years and pushed the consumer price index on its ever upward trend to a high of 109.3.

The index shows it took $10.93 to buy goods that cost $10 in the 1957-59 base period—thus chipping another 3 cents from the purchasing power of a $10 bill.

"It's a little out of balance, but not tremendously," said Deputy Asst. Commissioner Sidney A. Jaffe of the Bureau of Labor Statistics in describing the April rise.

Combined with sharp cutbacks in overtime work, the price increases slashed 1.5 per cent from the purchasing power of some 13 million factory workers' earnings. Their weekly pay after taxes dropped $1.25 to $95.12 for those with three dependents and $87.50 for single workers.

Rep. Speer Ejected From State House

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Speaker Thomas D. Graham, D-Cole County, ordered the ejection of Rep. Alfred A. Speer, R-St. Louis County, Thursday when Speer tried to get recognition.

Temper flared after Graham told Speer to take his seat. Speer had been trying for some minutes to get the floor and Graham had been refusing to recognize him.

"Either you take your seat or I'll have the sergeant at arms eject you from the chamber," Graham shouted.

Speer continued to ask recognition in a loud voice.

"Sergeant at arms," Graham ordered, "eject that man."

The sergeant at arms is Orville Woodward, a burly but friendly man.

He took Speer by the arm but Speer wrapped his arms around a microphone post and continued shouting.

Finally, other minority members asked Speer to leave. Graham kept telling Speer during the exchange that he would be recognized in due time. Speer has been refused the floor several times in his efforts to get out of the Rules Committee a resolution he introduced Jan. 19 and on which, he said, he has been refused a hearing.

The resolution would change the House rules so that lobbyists would have to register immediately with the chief clerk and at the end of the session report how they spent their employers' money.

Big Trucks Off Road On Holiday Weekends

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Oversized trucks will not be permitted to use Missouri highways on the Memorial Day weekend and six other holidays this year, the Highway Department announced Thursday.

The department issues special permits for over-dimension and overweight loads but none will be issued for the Memorial Day weekend in an effort to make the highways safer during the heavy traffic period.

EDITORIALS

Critics Need History Lesson

"Blast 'em," we are urged emphatically.

"Blast who, whom and why?" we interrogate.

"Why those communists, socialists and eggheads who are persistently trying to stir up trouble among our young people and adults, too?"

Reading about these incidents lately we feel like blowing our top but this is too much like violent emotionalism which induces a negative response.

This business of stirring things up over government policy in Southeast Asia and Santo Domingo or telling college students that "America is the most hated nation in the history of mankind," is the technique used by such persons as Claude Lightfoot, former vice-president of the Communist Party's national committee, who spoke last Wednesday in Columbia at the University of Missouri's Business and Public Administration School Auditorium under sponsorship of the Fabians, a liberal discussion group. Another observation is that we are driving nationalists throughout Asia into the Communist camp because the Communists have recognized what we blindly ignore.

An answer to these assertions is made by Don Oakley, editorial writer:

"Whatever elements of truth there may be to such charges, it is possible that the scholars might better serve their ideals and the struggling peoples they are concerned about if they left off castigating the United States for a bit and directed their energies to teaching the world a little modern history."

That's about as pithy an observation

as anyone can suggest especially when the question is asked: "What nation, what people, are free today as a result of Communist support in the realization of their nationalistic aspiration?"

The answer should be as obvious to professors and students of world affairs as it is to the ordinary person who has only a high school education and reads his daily newspaper.

Consider the Spanish American War of 1898. The military occupation of the Philippines required years of bloody fighting in which tens of thousands died before guerrillas were subdued. All the moral charges and military arguments being directed against the United States in Viet Nam now could have been made against us in the Philippines then, and many of them were.

Today, the Philippines is a free and independent nation, something it would not be had the U.S. withdrawn its sphere of interest and stopped interfering with the nationalistic aspirations of certain Filipinos.

In 1945, the United States defeated Japan and imposed its own ideas of how a country should be governed. Today, Japan is a free and independent nation, the most advanced in Asia and one of the most respected in the world, and a tough competitor rather than an economic vassal of American "imperialism."

Foreigners, and misguided eggheads at home, may forget these and other examples of America's "failure to understand nationalistic aspirations." There is no excuse for Americans doing so.

Curtis Publishing Strikes It Rich

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—It looks as if the magazine founded by Benjamin Franklin has struck a bonanza, thanks to modern mining and the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Oldest weekly in the United States, the Saturday Evening Post, and its parent, the Curtis Publishing Company, have experienced tough financial sailing due to the carving up of the advertising dollar by television. The Post's chief competitors, Life and Look, own five and four TV stations, respectively, make a small fortune from each station. The Post-Ladies Home Journal-Holiday combine stuck to the old-fashioned Justice Department anti-monopoly theory that there should be no monopoly in news dissemination.

As a result circulation has continued high, but advertising is down. And the greater the circulation without advertising — the greater the loss.

However, the Curtis Publishing Company owns 98,000 acres of timberland near Timmins, Ontario, of which it leased 46,000 acres to Texas Gulf Sulphur in 1963. Later it became known that Texas Gulf had discovered fabulously valuable silver, copper and zinc deposits adjacent to and on the Curtis land.

This, however, is only part of the bonanza. The real bonanza came in a lawsuit filed by the Securities and Exchange Commission against Texas Gulf last month, charging that it had hushed up the ore strike while 13 inside officials made a killing by buying their own company's stock.

TV vs. Minerals

On the basis of this official federal government action, Curtis stockholders now plan to sue Texas Gulf, charging deception and damages. They will also probably move to collect the full value of the ore on Curtis land.

At the time Texas Gulf signed its lease with Curtis to explore and exploit minerals on 46,000 acres, it had drilled a hole 300 feet from Curtis's land and on Nov. 12, 1963, struck amazing pay dirt. Texas Gulf officials hastily moved the rig away, planted trees around the hole to make it look undisturbed, and hushed up their find until they could sign up for Curtis's land at a rate of a 10 per cent royalty.

On April 11, 1964, when the New York Times carried a story of the ore find, Texas Gulf, according to the SEC, issued a press release denying it. Texas Gulf stock meanwhile zoomed from $18 to $32.

Curtis will now claim that it is entitled to 90 per cent royalty, not 10 per cent. In addition, it owns 52,000 acres of unexplored land on which geologists believe there must be valuable ore deposits.

On the basis of 27 holes drilled on the 46,000 acres leased to Texas Gulf, this 46,000-acre alone is estimated to have 6,400,000 tons of ore valued at $61.89 a ton—or $390,000,000. This does not include the 52,000 unleased acres.

So the magazine founded by Benjamin Franklin now has a backstop even more valuable than TV stations.

American Nazi

Rep. Charles Joelson, D-N.J., questioned a Justice Department official the other day as to why the American Nazi party was not included in the approximately 300 organizations on the department's subversive list.

"The American Nazi party, despite the noise it makes, is a very small group and has a very small membership," replied J. W. Yeagley, assistant attorney general in charge of internal security, at a closed-door appropriations meeting.

"Is that not also true of some other organizations on the subversive list?" inquired Joelson.

"It may very well be," conceded Yeagley. "We do not have evidence of their direct foreign association and do not want to give the American Nazi party the publicity which it is finding difficult to get now."

"Do you know that this group in the District of Columbia alone has engaged in 17 acts of either incitement to riots or disorders?" asked Joelson.

"I am not saying we are always right in everything we do in this area of fighting subversive organizations," replied Yeagley, "but we can give logical reasons. . . . There has been no proceeding on this since 1955. It was our conclusion that we would gain little and lose quite a bit by a hearing on the American Nazi party."

Crime and the Home

Crime in the U.S. has increased five times faster than our population since 1958 and is "continuing to go up," FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover told the House appropriations committee behind closed doors. There were an estimated 2,259,100 serious crimes in 1963, a 10 per cent rise over 1962, he revealed.

In 1964, Hoover testified, serious crime again jumped 13 per cent over 1963. Murder increased 9 per cent, forcible rape 19 per cent, robbery 12 per cent, aggravated assault 18 per cent, burglary 12 per cent, serious larceny 13 per cent, and auto theft 16 per cent.

The uptrend of criminal violence is practically worldwide, by no means confined to the United States, said the FBI boss.

"I know that it is on the increase in Great Britain, Western Europe, Canada, Australia and India," he testified, adding that he also had reports of serious crime problems in the Soviet Union.

"Crime has increased somewhat over the last several years in some Oriental countries, but the respect for the family, for the father, for a background of respectability, is strong with the Orientals," Hoover told the committee. "It is evident in California, where you find proportionately fewer Orientals getting into serious difficulty, due to discipline in the home."

Youth of China Pore Over Work of Red Party Leader

EDITOR'S NOTE — The Southam Newspapers of Canada have assigned Charles Lynch, chief of the Southam News Services, to Red China — a part of the world U.S. reporters cannot enter. This is a dispatch he filed back in Canada.

By CHARLES LYNCH

PEKING (AP) — I haven't yet laid eyes on him in the flesh, but Mao Tse-tung has been my constant companion in my wanderings through Red China, and I feel I know his face better than I know my own.

The youth of the nation pour over his works — and considering that the works are published without illustrations of any kind, this speaks much for their potency as well as for Chinese powers of concentration.

Old Coeducational Housing Plan Causes Surprise At College

BELOIT, Wis. (AP) — A couple returning for a class reunion startled Beloit College officials when they pointed to a women's dormitory and recalled, "We met in that building when we both lived there as students."

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Webster of Beloit added, "We were married there."

Officials searched records and found the hall was used as a coeducational dormitory in 1918-19 with men living on one floor and women on the other. The 72-year-old building became a women's dormitory the following year and is now being torn down to make room for a new science hall.

Your Tomorrows

What now is your tomorrow?
What pathway will you take?
To the dawn of a new morning
On this day do you awake,
And there will be tomorrows—
What will they hold for you?
The answer is in wisdom
In the things you choose to do.
Go forward toward tomorrow
Seeking now your precious goal,
But let not its glory blind you
And obliterate your soul;
Rise far above temptation
Let no one ever sway
You against your conscience —
Be too strong to lead astray,
In decisions be not hasty,
Patience is a virtue great,
For our morals often crumble
When our eagerness won't wait,
And strangely when things happen
That may bring on grief and shame
Always—always—folks remember
Any blight that stains a name,
Yes, indeed, you will need money —
No matter what your field
But never let it bury
Simple pleasures life can yield,
Never let it rule completely
Till at night you cannot sleep,
But let faith and love and dreams
Produce memories you can keep,
Memories that aren't swept away
By some foolish, wild desire,
Build a character and life
That all people will admire;
Tomorrows do you face
As today you graduate,
May God bless you, one and all,
In the future you create.

FINDING THE WAY

Join Hands . . . NOW

BY RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The news of almost every day erupts with violence. A psychiatrist explains that spring is a time when life is bursting with newness and the inadequate represses this surge of life. Therefore, they protest and rebel. Whatever the reason, the senseless killing of families or the bombing of a church or the crashing of a plane into a restaurant or any of the other bizarre acts are the symptoms of the distorted anger.

The problem is our common one, for unrestrained anger and unmanaged guilts can distort any person. Hatred not only destroys the integrity of the individual; hatred is the iconoclast. Unforgiven guilts and unmanaged hatreds destroy life with a tornado-like capacity for leveling human society and social structures.

We need a positive point of view concerning the moral commandment, "you shall not kill." It's more than refraining from murder. It's more than walking around without a gun or feeling homicidal tendencies. To understand violence you have to think of the causes of violence. So the old catechism spelled out the positive assertion that we are to love God so as not to hurt our neighbor in any way but help him in all his physical needs.

To live in a city and isolate self from housing problems, from an environment of fear and danger or to pretend there is no problem frustrating areas of our community is to participate in the causes of violence. It is to break the commandment, "You shall not kill."

A story is recounted by Rabbi

Silverman which tells of an incident which occurred in rural Minnesota. A five-year-old child became lost or a farm and the mother frantically searched for the child. She called the father and then the neighbors who searched through the heaped-up sheaves of wheat. Before long, everyone in the neighborhood, regardless of profession or station in life, was searching.

Someone suggested, "We seem to be going off in all directions. Why don't we join hands, form one large circle, spread out, then close in, encompassing every inch of the land?"

As a result, the preacher, the lab man, the farmer, the physician, the town idler and all the others joined hands. Finally, in narrowing the circle, the child was found. A physician examined the child and the father guessed that which was true — the child was dead.

Taking the lifeless body in his hands, he cried, "God, why didn't we join hands before it was too late?"

Controlling the violence in society and in ourselves is a complicated personal and social task. It requires that we all join hands!

Help Daughter Decide

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: Though our daughter, 9, tells us she doesn't want to be friends with another child any more, she seems afraid to tell the child. This girl won't let Lisa have other playmates. Whenever she has come over and found Lisa playing with some other girl, she has somehow got the other child to leave and go over to her house. Then Lisa will come in crying but as soon as Gail wants to make up, she goes back to playing with her. Her father wants to forbid this friendship but I think she should make her own decision.

Answer: Maybe she needs a bit of help to make it. Next time Gail mistreats her, you might try saying to her, "All right, we know why you think Gail is mean. She takes your friends away. Now let's think about how she's nice. She's got good ideas about playing, hasn't she? She let you wear her turquoise ring all one weekend, too, remember? So she can be kind as well as fun. The question is, is her meanness more important than her niceness? I can't tell you what the answer is. But if you start comparing you'll know what it is."

"If her bad qualities are more important than her good qualities you can tell Gail what they are and why you don't want to be friends any more. But you can't tell her anything if you don't start really thinking about what you like and don't like about her. . . ."

We can't expect children to make decisions without a little instruction.

This instruction consists in helping them become aware of both the disadvantages and advantages in the undecided situation. Until we help Lisa begin to balance the pros of her friendship with Gail against its cons, no conclusion about it can be reached. Like us, when we are confused by indecision, she can only dither in a muddle of contradictory feeling about Gail. She can't get them out into the open where she can look at them and weigh them against each other. Until they are brought out into the open, she can't get any grip on her opposing feelings and can only flap helplessly about under their conflicting pushes without choosing her own direction.

We don't have to get into long discussions of the pros and cons of children's undecided problems with them. Exploring those pros and cons is their business. Ours is to teach awareness of the pros and cons. It's up to Lisa to decide on the value of Gail's friendship to her. It's up to us to show her how to make the evaluation.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Didja hear the scuttlebutt . . . Congress is gonna give pay raises to federal employees AND the Armed Forces!"

Strip Mining Big for Henry County

TEBO MINE TIPPLE—Trucks haul coal stripped at Tebo mine near Calhoun to this tipple and preparation plant where it is washed, crushed to 1½-inch size and loaded on to railroad cars. The coal then travels to the Montrose power station by way of the M-K-T Railroad. This facility is located north of Calhoun just off Route J.

Busy Feeding Power Plant At Montrose

By LARRY EMBRY

Strip coal mining geared to the hungry consumption of Kansas City Power & Light Company's mine-mouth power station at Montrose is a major industry in the economy of neighboring Henry County and Peabody Coal Company has huge strippers at work around the clock to meet the needs.

Peabody, with headquarters in St. Louis, has operations at two locations in Henry County and the firm is actually pouring the production of three huge shovels into the Montrose generation plant.

Power mine located adjacent to the power station has two pits in production about eight miles apart. Eighty men are employed there and 1,032,757 tons of bituminous coal was unearthed last year.

Production at Tebo Mine, near Calhoun, is smaller than at the Montrose location as only one pit is in operation, but is also on a round-the-clock basis, employing some 55 men and shipping 35 to 40 rail cars of coal daily by the M-K-T Railroad to Montrose.

Proud of Contribution

Peabody is proud of its economic contribution to the area, but even prouder of its reclamation program. Perhaps it's because the strip mining industry has been under fire for the changes in the countryside where coal has been removed, but nevertheless Peabody's efforts are sincere and their program is showing sound steps forward.

"Green Earth" Plan

Peabody calls its program to restore these acres "Operation Green Earth," staffed with full time planning and reclamation engineers.

The path of the strip-mining shovels leaves a pit in its wake as deep as the coal is imbedded in the earth with towering dumps or spoil banks on each side.

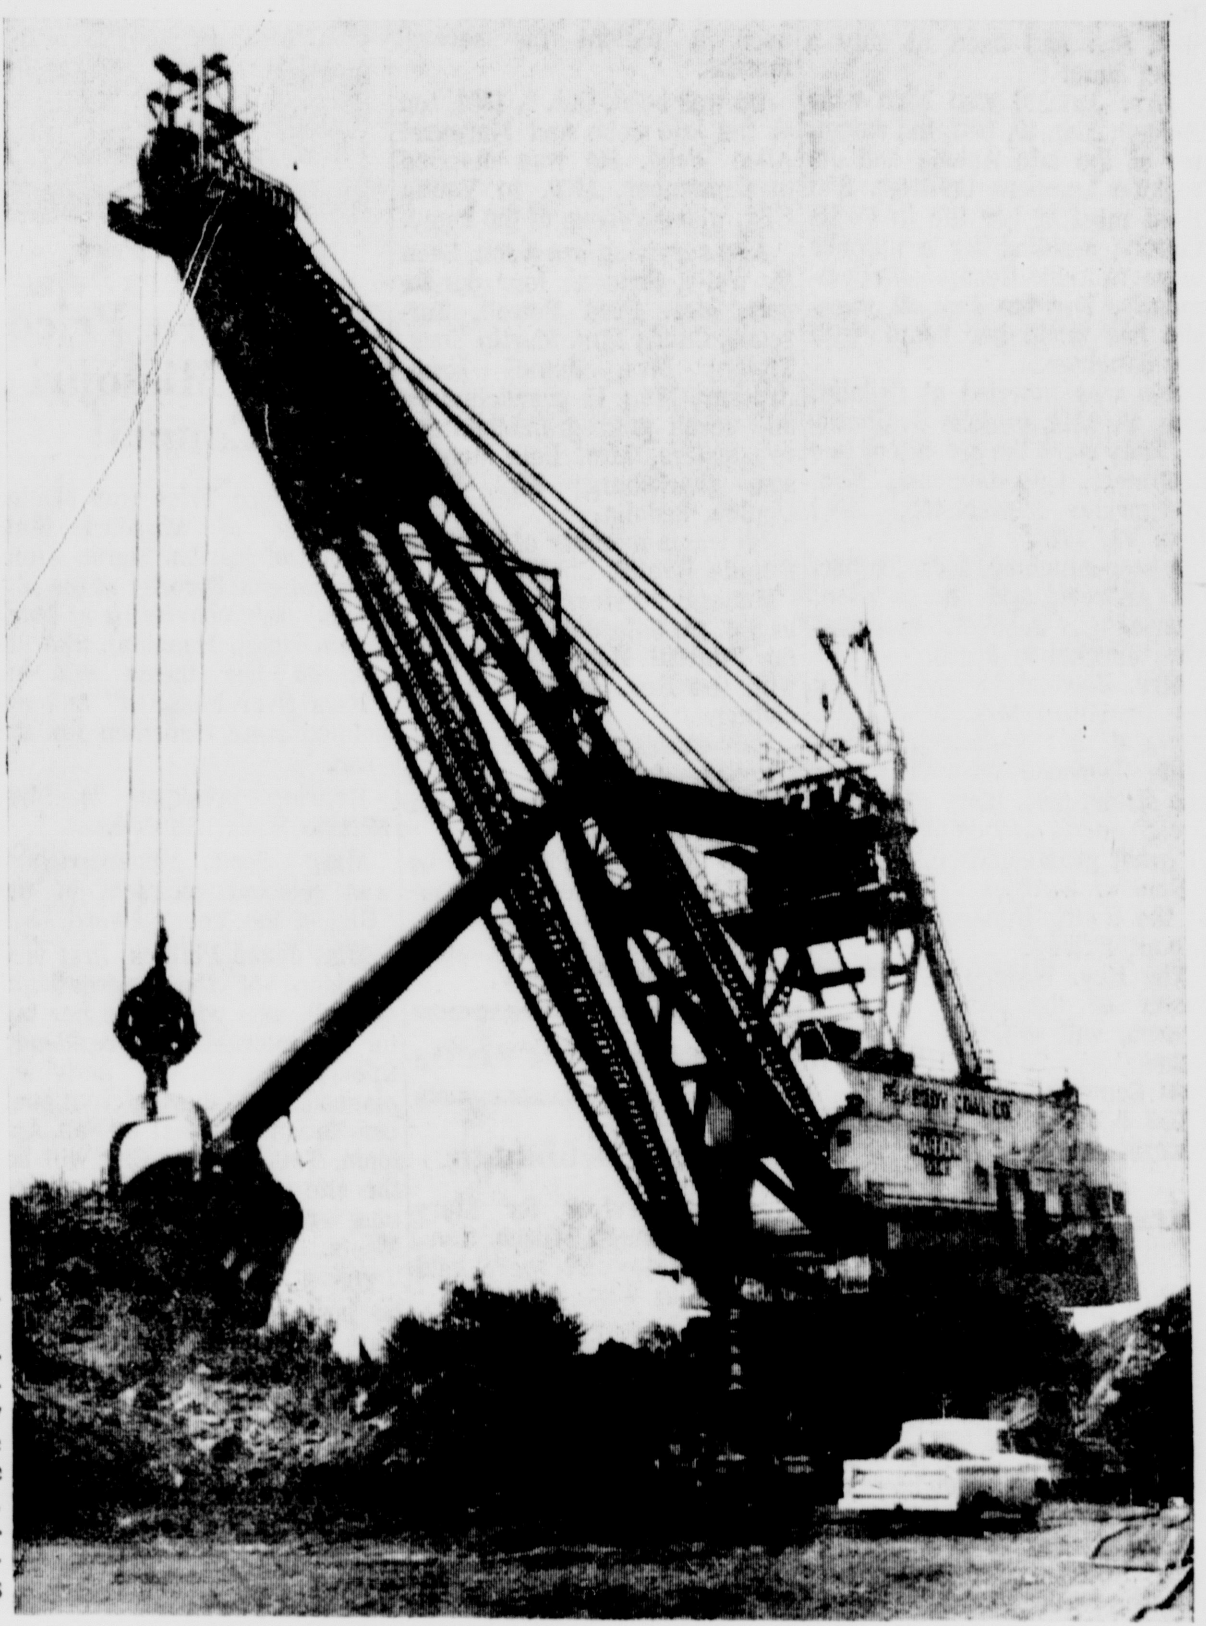

Speaking recently in Clinton, Fred Buckner, a member of Peabody's public relations staff, admitted that these new lands are raw and rugged in initial appearance and asked only for time to show improvement.

"We must stress an important point," he said. "Good land use and conservation methods cannot create these new land uses overnight. This matter of conservation is at best a slow process. The land needs time to settle and leach before planting, grasses and trees need time to grow, lakes need time to clear and stabilize. In time these strip mine lands, representing approximately 2 per cent of all the acres in Henry County, will be in productive use for wildlife, forests, pastures, fishing and general recreation."

See Big Improvements

"In the years to come they will cover with underbrush, game food and forests, with sections of wilderness isolated and remote where game can survive. Cattle will be grazing on more and more acres of pasture and the lakes will provide nearby fishing and recreation."

Peabody planted grass seed over 500 acres at the Power and Tebo mine sites during 1964 and this spring additional seedings were made. At Power, 101,000 trees were planted this spring as the company's reclamation department felt the area to be more suitable for forest development.

DWARF'S PICKUP TRUCK—Shovels like this huge 40-yard capacity machine in operation at Peabody Coal Company's Power Mine at Montrose are able to recover 90 to 95 per cent of the coal in place as compared to approximately 60 per cent average recovery from other mining methods. Production of three such shovels in the Calhoun and Montrose areas of nearby Henry County pours into the Kansas City Power & Light Company's generation plant at Montrose. Shovels like this, however, are small in comparison to a 200-yard model now being built for use in Kentucky. Peabody's shovels run 24-hours daily, seven days a week to keep up with the power plant needs.

A BIG BITE—The shovel of this stripper at Power Mine, Montrose, takes a big bite as it moves away dirt to get at coal in the seam below. Operator of the big shovel sits in a tiny cabin dwarfed by the rest of the machine. The operator's quarters are noticeable in the background of this photo.

SHOVEL OPERATOR—Doyle Murphy, Montrose, puts one of the shovels at Power Mine through its paces from this tiny cabin just large enough for his tall metal seat and controls. Operators working in shifts man the shovels 24 hours a day, seven days per week.

PITS PROVIDE RECREATION — Pits created by strip mining operation can be developed into fine waters for fishing, boating and water skiing. This pit located near the Tebo Mine site at Calhoun forms a "T" at the far end and connects with a much larger pit. A mine road leads directly to the water affording easy loading and unloading of boats. Trees along the banks are beginning to show good growth.

BANK DRILL—Softening of the terrain for easy shovel removal of the coal is accomplished by planting explosive charges in 60-foot holes cut by this bank drill shown in operation at Tebo Mine, Calhoun. Cylindrical bags of ammonia nitrate, mixed with a small amount of diesel fuel, are pushed into the holes and detonated with a cap.

ment. On the Tebo property plans are to continue seeding to grasses.

Lakes created by the strip pits provide recreational potential for fishing with boating and water skiing possible on the larger. At Calhoun another large lake was formed to provide water for coal washing operations.

Reclamation Plans

On the overall picture, Peabody has reclamation projects going in six states — Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Ohio and Oklahoma and last year planted 3½ million trees and

(Please turn to page 6, col. 5)

LOADED FOR DELIVERY—Coal from one pit at Power Mine, Montrose, is loaded on railroad cars for a short haul to the power plant, while production from the other pit is trucked directly to the plant. Here train cars are rolled beneath overhead hoppers for easy loading. Production of Tebo Mine, Calhoun, is shipped to Montrose by M-K-T Railroad.

ROAD BUILDING—Another big job for the strip miners is the maintenance of good roads in and about the pits being worked. Fire clay, found beneath the coal seam, is a natural material and is scooped out for road use. Here a bulldozer prepares to spread fire clay just dropped by the truck in front. Trucks such as the one shown here can haul 70 to 80 tons of coal at once and good roads are essential.

Relations With U.S. May Change

LIMA, Peru (AP) — The crisis in the Dominican Republic may prove to have been the agent of revolutionary change in the relations of Latin-American nations with the United States.

The crisis can mean painful difficulties ahead for U.S. diplomacy. Yet, in the long run, it could mean a change for the better.

Latin-American politicians obviously have noted that in cases where governments — such as the one in this country — openly deplored U.S. military action in the Dominican Republic, they tended to pull some of the teeth of the extreme left, depriving it of an important tool of propaganda attack.

On the other hand, where a government, such as that of Colombia, did not denounce U.S. action unequivocally, the extremists were provided with new propaganda ammunition with which to support new violence.

It seems likely that Latin-American governments will carefully observe the experience of Peru and Venezuela, both constitutionally elected regimes which publicly took a sour view of U.S. action in the Dominican Republic.

Peru is a good example of what seems to be developing. There seemed in this country to have been an initial feeling of shock at the original landings of U.S. forces in Santo Domingo.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Soviet Union formally proposed Thursday that the U.N.'s 114-nation disarmament commission demand withdrawal of troops and dismantling of military bases on foreign soil. The United States was the obvious target.

It also called for a special world conference early next year to ban use of nuclear weapons.

Moscow has fruitlessly made virtually similar demands in various U.N. forums for the past 15 years.

Police Reports

Police discovered a north window was broken at 5 a.m. Thursday at Clair's Service station in the 400 block of South Lamine. The proprietor was called to the station and he told police entrance had been gained, but nothing was missing.

Lawrence Gills Jr., 1210 South Kentucky, reported the loss of a black and white Hawthorne bicycle from the Smith-Cotton parking lot. The bike was later found.

Estil Williams, 2408 West 11th, reported the theft of a green, 1952 four-door Studebaker from the 100 block of South Kentucky between 9 and 11 p.m. Thursday.

Mrs. Mary Freund, 1604 East Twelfth, reported to the police Thursday night, she had lost a blue billfold containing a Town and Country check for $140 and $30 in cash.
